Possible Approaches

Professional website: Improve the current process first; Use a suitable existing third-party tool; compare subscriptions, data portability and permissions; Custom engineering needs a demonstrated gap in existing tools and a maintenance plan

Complexity: low to moderate, subject to review. Dependencies: Confirm requirements and ownership; Confirm ongoing maintenance, hosting and vendor terms

Business email and domain: Improve the current process first; Use a suitable existing third-party tool; compare subscriptions, data portability and permissions; Custom engineering needs a demonstrated gap in existing tools and a maintenance plan

Complexity: low to moderate, subject to review. Dependencies: Confirm requirements and ownership; Confirm ongoing maintenance, hosting and vendor terms

Booking integration: Improve availability and reminders in the current workflow first; Configure or integrate an existing scheduling provider; compare subscriptions and cancellation controls; Add booking to an existing website only if that channel is useful; Custom booking software requires unique needs; greater engineering and maintenance costs are unlikely to be proportionate initially

Complexity: low to moderate, subject to review. Dependencies: Current provider permissions and export/integration support; Availability, reminders and cancellation policy; Vendor subscription terms and ongoing support

Costs & Considerations

Budget: An affordable initial step; the investment range still needs review.

Constraints: I don't want a complicated app. I need something affordable.

Professional website: manual_review. Recurring costs: vendor quote required.

Business email and domain: manual_review. Recurring costs: vendor quote required.

Booking integration: manual_review. Recurring costs: vendor quote required.

All estimates are drafts. Implementation, third-party subscriptions, hosting, domain renewal and recurring maintenance require separate review. Optional future enhancements need their own scope.
